MACH, UD, MH, or Champion Tracker were titles I thought were unattainable until Ashlee came along. Ashlee demonstrated an uncanny desire to train and learn from day one, making working with her a blast. Because of her ability to master everything quickly and her "put me in coach" attitude, I thought I'd see how much she could achieve, and needless to say, she did pretty well!

Ashlee competed with such passion and intensity and made everything look easy (which it wasn't). Because of this, people often assumed I was a great trainer, but the truth is, I didn't train Ashlee. She trained me how to train her. People often joked that in agility, all I had to do was show Ashlee the course map and get out of her way, and we would qualify. How true that was.

The bottom line is Ashlee was a once in-a-lifetime dog that everyone loved and I was lucky to have!
